HONGKONG LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

PUBLIC HEALTH ORDINANCE.

The debate on the Public Health Ordinance was brought to a close by the Governor.

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR.—Before dealing with the various points raised in the exceedingly interesting debate to which we have just listened I would like to say one or two things in reference to the remarks which I made when introducing this Bill. It has been remarked that when I said that the constitution of the Commission was not entirely representative that I had been somewhat lacking in courtesy. It was so foreign to my thoughts to be in any way discourteous to the gentlemen who for so long contributed so much of their private time to the public interest on that Commission that I would wish most emphatically to disclaim any intention on my part whatever to have been guilty in the remotest degree of any discourtesy to them. How far the five unofficial members of the Sanitary Board could be representatives of the community or how far any five gentlemen in this community may be entirely representative where there are such a variety of interests involved is a matter of opinion. But it is a matter of history that my predecessor appointed these gentlemen originally as a Committee of the Sanitary Board, which was afterwards extended to a Commission and the reasons why he did so are well known. It reasons why he did so that in alluding to that subject I intended no discourtesy and no depreciation of the labours and work these gentlemen have done. In the second place I have seen it noted that I was in error in saying that the members of the Commission had not access to the confidential documents which passed between the Secretary of State and the Governor. Throughout the report of the Committee in the papers which I studied on this subject there was no indication whatever that they had access to confidential documents. I find I was in error in the statement I made and I deeply regret having made it. Exception was also taken to my remarks that the Commission had somewhat exceeded their powers. The committee was constituted to advise on the matter of the administration of the existing ordinance and my predecessor said "I do not contemplate modification of the Ordinance of 1837." I think I was well within the truth in the remark I made. Further, it has been stated that Sir Matthew Nathan repeatedly saw the Chairman of the Commission and had discussions with him from time to time as to the progress of their investigations. I regret very much that no record has been left of what transpired on those occasions, but it is perfectly clear from the fact of his having had these discussions and from the fact that he accepted the report that he intended to deal with it as though it had been entirely within the terms of reference. And that is the attitude I have myself adopted, and the proof of it is that we are here to-day discussing the second reading of the Amending Bill, whether it was within the original terms of reference or not. I may add that whether or not they were within the terms of reference, that they were in fact in that report has been set aside on that ground. Every single recommendation or suggestion has been considered on its merits irrespective of whether or not it was within the precise terms of the reference. It is not usual gentlemen that a speech which is made in this Council should be debated by any public body outside the Council before it has been replied to in this Chamber. When I saw that discussion was likely to take place at the Sanitary Board a short time ago I took the opportunity of suggesting to the President that no limitation should be placed upon the discussion so that members of the Commission who are members of the Sanitary Board might be able to reply to anything I had said in the fullest manner they desired. I have allowed myself in the few words I have just said to travel outside the strict discussion of the Bill in order to amplify the remarks I made at the first reading. It is eight weeks to-day since we introduced this Bill to the Council and I am glad to say that the full advantage has been taken of that opportunity. The European land and property owners appointed two leading firms of architects to study and report upon it, and the Chinese property owners have adopted the same course and appointed a third firm to report on the Bill. The Sanitary Board has had several meetings to discuss the Amending Ordinance and we are in possession of their views. I welcome on behalf of the Government most cordially this body of opinion and the criticisms which have been most valuable and I think they will tend to improve the Bill which I hope will be a useful measure and will set at rest this perennial controversy on the subject of sanitation in this Colony. I turn now to one or two of the principal points raised in the speeches to which we have listened. In the first place I think, after the eloquent speech which we had from the hon. member on my right (Mr. Osborne) that I may dismiss the question regarding the municipality or quasi-municipality which was raised by the Sanitary Commission. I noted in the hon. member's speech with the greatest pleasure the encouraging tribute which he paid to the singleness of purpose—I do not say to the ability or non-ability—but to the singleness of purpose of Government officials in endeavouring to do the best as far as in them lies, for the public welfare, and I hope the words of the hon. member reflect generally the opinion of unofficial members of the Council and of the leading people of the colony. With regard to the matter of the administrative head of the Sanitary Department there is little to say. Both the hon. members on my right who have spoken have signified their approval of the proposals of the Government in this matter. I entertain great hopes that the present intervention of an administrative head who has powers and status and can devote his whole time to his work will result in the far better administration of the sanitary laws and above all in securing the co-operation and understanding of the Chinese in what we are trying to achieve. (applause.) The hon. senior unofficial member of the Council alluded to the question of the appointment of the Medical Officer of Health as a member of the Sanitary Board. When introducing this Bill I said that this matter had been debated before and I observed there had been considerable opposition to the proposal and if it appeared at present that the unanimous opinion of the unofficial members was against that proposal I shall not be prepared to insist upon it. At the same time I must say that it appears to me that the argument that the Medical Officer of Health would be the master of the Board and that any proposal from him emanating as medical officer which they thought fit to amend would not be set aside when as a member of the Board he was called upon to vote after hearing arguments based on finance—that argument, it seems to me, is untenable. Personally, I am of the opinion that as Sanitary Board is only another name for Health Board it is essential that there should be a Government medical officer upon the Board, whether he is the Principal Medical Officer of Health or the Assistant Medical Officer of Health and I feel sure that the Secretary of State will insist upon that. With regard to the question of open spaces, it has been urged that the law is too drastic and I have been anxious to make myself personally acquainted with the operation of the law by inspecting various types of houses to which it has been applied. The net result appeared to be that it was absolutely inconceivable to make any law which would meet the great variety of types of houses and built on gradients of serious steepness. The existing law has been modified by Ordinance 8 of 1907 which gives power of exemption and modification to the Governor in Council. I think gentlemen, that if no other result had followed from the report of the Commission, the Commissioners might consider their labours had been effective in having procured the enactment of that ordinance. I think the value and importance of that ordinance has been underrated or at least not been properly appreciated. It is now possible, for exemptions, for modifications to be applied for in any case in which the law appears to operate harshly in any variety of types of houses. The hon. senior unofficial member laid stress upon the fact that overregulation would tend to drive away the population and enhance the cost of labour. This policy of open spaces has now been in operation since 1899 and I may add that the policy of scavenging has been in operation since 1887. I am of the opinion that it is a wise and politic not to change our legislation from time to time but to allow, as by the Ordinance of last year, greater elasticity, greater liberality in interpretation by granting powers of exemption and modification. With regard to the scavenging of lanes it may perhaps be said that the money which the Government has spent in providing these might perhaps have been better spent in providing sums for large resumptions. That however is a matter of opinion and has now become an academic question. The policy has been in operation for 20 years, and it is one on which Messrs. Chadwick and Simpson laid special stress. These gentlemen, as Mr. Osborne has told us, were experts sent out from home to this Colony at the special wish of the community, and it was on their suggestions that the Public Health Ordinance was framed. I had intended to say a few words with reference to the words "by the owner" in section 175 but in view of what has fallen from the hon. unofficial member there is hardly any necessity now to touch upon that subject. There is one other point upon which I think it is advisable to say a few words. That is the question of disinfection. I think gentlemen we are in process of reaching a solution in this matter which is the best of all possible solutions and in my opinion—the only solution, that is by improving the sanitation of the city and by stopping the abandonment of the dead in the streets and by the co-operation of the Chinese themselves. Owing to the tactful and indefatigable work of the Registrar General, Mr. Brewin, supported by both the hon. members who represent the Chinese on this Council, and by the two gentlemen, Mr. Ian Chiu Pak and Mr. Fung Wa Chan, who represent the Chinese community on the Sanitary Board, great progress has been made in the co-operation of the Chinese in this matter. The establishment of dispensaries has advanced very rapidly. Their objects are to enable the Chinese, to understand what the Sanitary law is and to teach them how to act in cases of infectious disease and to enable them to remove their sick and dead without the interference, if possible, of the sanitary officers, and to appoint street committees. Quite recently, at the beginning of February last, we had advanced a further step in the appointment of Street Committees. I had the pleasure of meeting them a few weeks ago, and I was struck with the enthusiasm and obvious attention to their duties of the large number of gentlemen, some two hundred, who attended that day. In future the dispensaries will be under the control of the Tung Wah Hospital Committee which has been attending to the supervision of the work. I trust this will result in a considerable decrease in the abandonment of dead bodies. With regard to the question of disinfection there was a large number of minor amendments made by the Commissioners in their report. The majority of these really involve amendments to by-laws. Only some months ago the Council asked the Sanitary Board to submit any by-laws which they considered needed revision in view of the report of the Commission. With regard to the amendment proposed by my hon. learned friend on my right I think the point he has raised is an important one and I can promise that it shall receive the most careful consideration of the Government. He said that a deadlock was reached when there occurred a divergence of opinion between the person desiring to carry out the work or his architect and the Building Authority as to the interpretation of the law but that, I think, is hardly a correct description of the existing condition of affairs since there is of course an appeal to the Governor-in-Council, who is advised by the Attorney General as to his decision in any ruling. I don't say that that would be entirely satisfactory from a legal point of view as a ruling by the Supreme Court. It has the great merit that it involves no cost to either party and it is speedy and final. Should there be a considerable number of such applications made involving considerable expense to the Government, the circumstances would be different, but that is a point I will not go into at present. I should like to take the advice of my legal adviser upon it. All I can promise at present is that it shall have our careful consideration. The hon. member on my right asked that we should adjourn the discussion of the Bill in committee to give members sufficient time in which to study it, and I propose that we shall not take it for another three weeks.

HON. MR. POLLOCK.—I have to ask your Excellency to grant a longer adjournment than three weeks. I would ask an adjournment for a further two weeks. The Hon. Mr. Osborne is leaving the Colony on Thursday next and a member will have to be appointed to the Council in his place, and that member will come new to this Bill. He will have to study thoroughly the provisions of the original Ordinance and understand the purpose of the various amendments proposed. I would ask for a further adjournment on a personal ground. Circumstances have arisen which will render it necessary for me to leave the Colony on Thursday next by the "Empress of Japan," and I do not anticipate that I can be back within three weeks from this date. It would amount to this that in place of the hon. member there would be a new member who would not have mastered the intricacies of this important Bill and I am afraid I should not be present in my place in the Council as I would like to be when this Bill is being considered. It is very important when this Bill which we hope to put an end to Sanitary legislation for a time is being considered that every unofficial member should be in his place.

HIS EXCELLENCY.—I have already considered the point raised by the hon. member who has just sat down. I need hardly say that it is my desire to meet as fully as possible the views of unofficial members and to give as long an adjournment as may be necessary, but I hardly think—at any rate I have had no indication—that it is the general wish either of the unofficial members or of the community that this Bill should be hung up for a further five weeks. It had been my intention to take the Committee stage in a fortnight but on consideration of the fact that we were losing the hon. member on my right (Mr. Osborne)—a loss which I most deeply regret—and also that the hon. member at the end of the table on my left (Mr. Kewick) will also leave the Colony for a short time, I thought that it would be better to postpone the committee stage for a further week. That would give fully a fortnight in one case and three weeks in the other for the temporary members appointed to their places in the Council to consider the provisions of the Bill. I could hardly adjourn the Committee stage for five weeks purely on the ground that one individual is going away on entirely voluntary business from the Colony, even though the case is one we all deplore. I think that it would be better to adhere to my proposal to take the committee stage three weeks hence.

The Bill was then read a second time.

FOREIGN CORPORATIONS ORDINANCE.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL moved the third reading of the Bill entitled An Ordinance to enable Foreign Corporations to acquire and hold land in the Colony.

THE COLONIAL SECRETARY seconded, and the motion was carried.

HIS EXCELLENCY.—The Council stands adjourned till this day three weeks.

SUPREME COURT.

Friday, 1st May.

IN SUMMARY JURISDICTION.

BEFORE MR. H. H. J. GONPERZ (ACTING PUISNE JUDGE).

CLAIM UNDER A WILL.

Mr. Edmund Hamilton Sharp, at present residing at Bank in British Columbia, and Sir Catchick Paul Chater, Kt., C.M.G., of No. 5, Queen's Road Central, the present Trustees of the will of the late Mr. Granville Sharp, claimed from Teang Keng, contractor, the sum of $8,333, being arrears of interest due under a mortgage deed dated the 18th day of May 1903, whereby the defendant covenanted that if he did not repay to Edmund Hamilton Sharp and one James Buchanan (the then trustees of the aforementioned will), the principal sum of $32,000 with interest thereon, at the rate of 7 per cent per annum on May 18, 1906, he would thereafter, so long as the principal sum should remain unpaid, pay to the trustees by equal monthly payments, interest on the said principal at the rate of 7 per cent. Mr. Jackson, of Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master, appeared for the claimant. After hearing evidence, his Honour reserved judgment in order that claimants might produce the mortgage deed.

HAMBURG.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

Hamburg, April 2nd.

Since my last letter the State of Hamburg has sustained a severe loss through the death of the chief magistrate for the present year, Burgomaster Dr. Mönckeberg whose decease after a few days illness on the 27th of March is deeply regretted by the entire population. He belonged to an old Hamburg family and was born in 1839, the son of Dr. Karl Mönckeberg, pastor of St. Nicolai Kirche, his mother being a member of the well known Schroeder family. After having passed through the grammar school of this city he studied law at Heidelberg and Göttingen where he took his degree as "Doctor utriusque juris" in 1862. In the following year he commenced his career as a lawyer in Hamburg in partnership with his friend Dr. Brandis, was elected a member of the Bürgerschaft in 1871 and was made a senator in 1875. In 1885 he was appointed head of the financial department, an office for which he proved himself eminently fitted. Four years later he was elected second and in the following first Burgomaster and President of the Senate, a position which he has since repeatedly occupied in the rotation of office as laid down by law. In the course of these duties he was frequently called upon to do the honours of the city to the Kaiser and other royal and distinguished guests which he did with rare tact and ability. On the occasion of King Edward's visit to Hamburg four years ago the chief duties of representation devolved upon him, owing to the critical state of health of the reigning Burgomaster, Dr. Haubmann. He was on intimate terms with the great Chancellor Prince Bismarck and other distinguished personages, and enjoyed great popularity amongst all classes in the states for, as one who knew him well observes in an obituary notice in one of the newspapers, he has always lived up to the motto inscribed over the entrance to his residence: "Für, honeste, toleranter." Numerous messages of sympathy and condolence, official and private, from high and low in this country and abroad testified to the high esteem in which he was held by all that came into contact with him. The funeral took place on Monday last, the service being held in the St. Johannis Kirche in Harvestahude, whither the body had been conveyed on the previous evening. Needless to say that there was a profusion of flowers of every variety and wreaths of all sizes so that the encoirous round the church were literally covered with them, whilst a selection of the finest was exhibited in the adjoining mission house. A company of the 76th (Hamburg) Regiment was drawn up in front of the main entrance and was joined by the United Kriegsmarine and other societies wishing to do honour to the departed. In the chancel inside the church stood the coffin buried beneath flowers amongst which a wreath deposited by the general commanding the 9th army corps on behalf of the Kaiser and one sent by Prince Heinrich occupied prominent places. Seats had been reserved for the family, the Senate, the Bürgerschaft, and other local authorities, the consular body, the representatives of Bremen and Lübeck, and the other German states, &c. &c. It was a solemn and most impressive occasion, and the service itself was of the simplest; it commenced with a portion of Cherubini's Requiem: "Requiem eternam dona ei Domine" executed to perfection by the School-Teachers' musical association, followed by a hymn after which the incumbent of the parish delivered an impressive address choosing for his text the verse "Blessed are they that die in the Lord." Another hymn having been sung, a minister acting in the place of the head of the Hamburg clergy who was unavoidably absent, spoke a few words in which he held up the deceased as the type of a true Hanseatic citizen and a bright example for the rising generation. Klopstock's chorale "Aufersteh'n, ja aufersteh'n" concluded the service after which several bearers in the customary Spanish costume, approached and carried the coffin to the hearse, the military present being arms as it issued from the church door. The troops, preceded by the regimental band playing funeral marches and suitable hymns, then headed the seemingly endless cortege on its way to the cemetery at Ohlsdorf where thousands of people had assembled to meet it in spite of the rain that had set in. A short service in one of the chapels which was tastefully decorated, a silent prayer and then the remains were consigned to the earth, there to await the day of resurrection.

The death of another Hamburg citizen of note Dr. Julius Scharlach has also to be recorded. He was the senior partner of one of the leading firms of lawyers in this city and an ardent promoter of colonial enterprise. He was a member of the board of directors of numerous companies chiefly connected with foreign undertakings and was well known in London and abroad.

A COLONIAL COLLEGE.

The authorities here and in Berlin having for some time past been considering the advisability of establishing a colonial institute in this city for the purpose of preparing young men intended for the colonies in an official or private capacity, for their future career and of serving as a central office for all matters of an economic character connected with the German dependencies abroad, the head of the colonial department has now informed the Senate that they have decided to carry out the plan on the lines already agreed upon, for although university towns in the interior may offer equal educational advantages, Hamburg possesses as a great sea port and trading centre the additional one of permitting theoretical instruction to be supplemented by practical demonstration. (He is prepared to guarantee a certain number of government students every year and promises further pecuniary support if required. The Senate has now applied to the Bürgerschaft for the necessary funds; the estimates are very moderate, as it is believed that

The present teaching staff of the scientific institutions in Hamburg will suffice, at any rate for the moment, if a chair for geography and another for common law be added. The governing body is to be composed of a certain number of the professional staff, a representative of the Board of Education and an imperial commissioner, besides three business men an advisory member to be nominated by the Chamber of Commerce. Temporary accommodation will have to be provided until the building for educational purposes, which is being erected by Herr Siemens as a gift to the town, shall be completed.

The course of study is to occupy twelve months and will be divided into two terms of six months each, the syllabus to comprise astronomy, zoology, botany, geography, history, law, tropical hygiene, political economy and colonial administration.

A HAPPY IDEA.

Twenty-four happy schoolboys chosen from the top form, the so-called select, of the different board schools of the town embarked today on board one of the steamers of the Woermann Line for a month's trip to the Canary Islands accompanied by one of the headmasters and a medical man. Herr Voermann made the offer to the Board of Education kindly promising to defray all expenses, with a view to arouse and stimulate the interest of the boys in shipping and the overseas trade. The Board readily assented and for the last few weeks the boys have gone through a course of instruction to enable them to derive real benefit from their voyage.

VARIOUS.

The annual dinner of the East Asiatic Society was held on Saturday last, the 28th ult. It was well attended and amongst the guests may be mentioned Prince Hsien-chi accompanied by several officers, but the authorities of the city were not represented owing to the death of Mr. Mönckeberg. The evening was a great success as usual.

On Sunday afternoon a new steamer launched for the use of the British Mission to sailors was christened by Lady Ward, the chaplain of the society in Antwerp having come over for the ceremony of dedication. The Hamburg-American Line had kindly placed one of their tenders at the disposal of the mission and the members of the British colony, besides sailors had assisted in the launch. After an introductory hymn H.B.M. Consul-General Sir W. Ward addressed the launch in the time honoured fashion, giving the name of "sunshine". In a short but spirited speech the Antwerp chaplain then thanked all those who by their contributions had assisted the Mission in providing the means for the purchase of the boat amongst whom he had much pleasure in mentioning the Kaiser and concluded by exhorting the hope that the new launch, true to its name, might carry sunshine into the hearts of many.

The dismissal from the army of Dr. C. Brabant, a prominent member of the radical party in the Bürgerschaft, and a lieutenant in the reserve, has caused considerable excitement in the press and was the subject of a question in favour of the socialist candidate on the occasion of a second ballot in one of the wards last month stating that a socialist was at any rate to be preferred to a member of one of the more conservative parties. It would seem hard that anybody should be made to suffer for his political convictions, on the other hand a man that lends active support to a party whose avowed aim and object is the destruction of existing institutions, and a great number of whose members, including many of its leaders, defend political assassination and palliate regicides, can scarcely be considered a fit and proper person to hold a commission in the army, one of the safeguards of law and order.

HU E GERMAN LOANS.

OVER FORTY-TWO MILLIONS.

It is announced that arrangements have been made for the issue of an Imperial loan of 25,000,000 marks (£12,500,000) and 400,000,000 marks (£20,000,000) Prussian Consols, both at 94 per cent, and bearing 4 per cent. interest. The consortium of banks, which has made itself responsible for the issue of the loans, has also taken over £10,000,000 in Prussian Four per Cent. Treasury Bills. The Empire requires the money to balance the Budget, but the Prussian loan is for railway extensions.

With the new issues, Prussia and the Empire between them will have borrowed £50,000,000 in the present year. A further increase in the annual charge thus created may be expected from the impending expiry of £2,000,000 in Prussian Threes and a Half per Cent. Treasury bills, which will apparently have to be renewed at 4 per cent.

APRIL FOOLERY IN BERLIN.

Berlin, April 1.

German newspapers invariably celebrate April 1 by publishing more or less humorous articles intended to fool their readers in a harmless, amusing way.

The South German fortnightly review, "Meerz," in the issue published to-day publishes a piece of April foolery by publishing the imaginary text of the letters exchanged by the Emperor and Lord Tweedmouth, the leading German newspaper, the "Taschob Randachow," has fallen into the trap by reproducing the text of these letters, which are, of course, forgeries.

The "Berliner Zeitung" similarly publishes a fictitious cable from Washington stating that the American Senate is bringing pressure to bear on President Roosevelt to appoint Mr. Pierpont Morgan Ambassador in Berlin. Nearly every newspaper to-day contains some form of April foolery in its columns.

CUTICURA PROVES ITS WONDERFUL EFFICACY

"My eyes were sore for a year. I went to a chemist who gave me some ointment to put on them, but it did no good. Then I went to another chemist and he gave me some lotion to bathe them with which did not do them any good, either. One day I read of a person whose sore eyes had been cured by Cuticura, so I got one box of Cuticura Ointment and I used only it two nights and it cured them. My eyes have been quite well since." My father has suffered with eczema for the last six years. We have had ointments from two or three doctors without success. My mother tried Cuticura Ointment and it is the only thing that gives relief. He is much better now, since he has been using it. Mrs. F. Rickard, 30, Dunwinton, Blandford, Dorset, Jan. 24, 1907."

"It would indeed be ungrateful to withhold the well-deserved words of praise after receiving such benefit from the Cuticura Remedies. The only real remedy—for I consulted a doctor without result—was Cuticura Resolvent Pills, assisted by Cuticura Soap. ## SIR R. HART'S HOME-COMING.

PARTED FROM HIS FAMILY FOR A QUARTER OF A CENTURY.

A London paper says:—The date of Sir Robert Hart's arrival in England is not yet known, even approximately, stated Mr. Edgar Hart, the eldest son of the retiring Inspector-General of the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs.

The announcement of his farewell audience with the Dowager Empress at Peking has, however, proved sufficient to set on foot once again preparations for a reception in honour of his long-delayed home coming.

That home-coming will be an extraordinary event, even in the life of a man who has had such an eventful career as Sir Robert. He has been in China for fifty-four years, and last came to England in 1873.

Twenty-seven years have gone by since he last met all the members of his own family in reunion. Lady Hart returned to England in 1881 with her children, the youngest of whom, then a baby girl of two years, did not see her father again until a couple of years ago, when, a full-grown woman, she accompanied her mother, Lady Hart, on a visit to the Inspector-General at Peking.

The three grandchildren whom Sir Robert has never seen, and has only met his wife once in a period stretching over a quarter of a century. Curiously enough, said a gentleman admitted to Sir Robert's friendship in Peking, yesterday, "Although he had been separated from his own children for so long, children always found a way to his heart. He was completely at one with them. Playing with children was one of the very few relaxations he ever permitted himself. One of his great delights was to open his garden to the European children in Peking."

His long years of waiting, nearly at an end, Lady Hart will return on April 8 to the town house in Cadogan place, where it is expected Sir Robert will first of all take up his residence while he makes the acquaintance of the new London. For, compared with the London of 1878, the London of to-day is a new city. Familiar landmarks, whole streets, vast areas of property have been swept away. Taxi-cabs, motor-omnibuses, motor-cars, tube railways, the London County Council itself are among a few of the innovations which will confront Sir Robert after his long exile.

Some of the German papers are deeply interested in the wardrobe of D'Annunzio. The cut of his clothes, they say, the pattern of his numerous vests, and the colours of his cravats are among the vital things in his life. He owns 72 day shirts, and 12 dozen silk and linen socks lie in his cupboards. His hats are legion and in every variety of style. His evening clothes, dining suits, and walking apparel are made by the theatrical artists of Rome and Paris. His underclothing is of the finest spun silk. This department of his habitations is said to have cost £260. His wardrobe is said to be more extensive and costly than that of any millionaire living.

GUN WITH 300 MILES RANGE.

TERRIBLE INVENTION TO BE TESTED BY EXPERTS.

The Daily Chronicle gives an account of Mr. W. E. Simpson's new and terrible electric gun, on which he claims to have perfected his invention. Mr. Simpson believes that the deadly weapon of his invention will make for peaceful international relations no less firmly than the Council of the League of Nations. He claims that his method will secure the same desirable result.

The account of Mr. Simpson's invention has excited interest in military and naval circles, as well as amongst men of science and politicians, and the general public. An opportunity will shortly be given of testing the capabilities of the weapon in a practical test. A body of well-known men, experts in some branch of scientific warfare, have taken the matter up and a trial of the actual weapon will be made when a suitable range has been selected.

It should not be necessary to explain that a full test of the powers of Mr. Simpson's engine of destruction is not in contemplation. All that is required is to ascertain the velocity of the weapon, and if the 30,000 ft. per second, which Mr. Simpson and Colonel Mando claim for it, is attained, the distance of its range is a matter of calculation.

One of Mr. Simpson's stoutest oracles is Mr. W. T. Stead, who, in an interview raised some interesting points. One was as to whether a shot had ever been actually propelled from the new weapon. That, of course, will be done at the trial for which arrangements are being made.

Speaking generally on the assumption that Mr. Simpson's invention is all that is claimed for it, Mr. Stead said: "I regard him as a most efficient co-worker in the cause of peace." In the course of the conversation, Mr. Stead referred to Lord Lytton's strange story, "The Coming Race." In that book the author attributed the final disappearance of war from the planet to the discovery of a power he called "Vril," a destructive so deadly that an army could be annihilated by the touch of a button by the finger of a child.

"What Lord Lytton wrote," said Mr. Stead, "was, I believe, quite true, in a sense. I once had a long talk with M. Blavatsky—many people did not believe in her, but that is another matter—and she asserted that the 'Vril' of Lytton was absolutely true. It was simply, she maintained, a disintegrated atom, which, being disintegrated, sufficient force was liberated to destroy anything."

Turning from this fascinating speculation, Mr. Stead said that if Mr. Simpson could establish his claim no one would be more delighted than himself. But it must be proved beyond the possibility of doubt that his weapon, or the projectiles from his weapon, would go through the strongest armour ever put on a ship. At the same time, Mr. Stead insisted that the staggering fact was the assertion that the new weapon could shell Paris from London, or vice versa.

"We ought to be told plainly," he said, "whether this is purely a matter of laboratory experiment or mathematical calculation as it is what ought to happen. If it were not that Colonel Maude has acted as sponsor for this weapon, the general attitude of the public would, I think, be one of scepticism."

Mr. Stead raised other interesting questions. "If," he said, "the idea of bombarding places so far apart as London and Paris becomes practicable then the whole of our Dreadnoughts and great ironclads—become scrap-iron at once—a consummation devoutly to be wished in many respects—indeed, I only wish that Mr. Simpson would hurry up with that gun." One other point Mr. Stead made. "If," he said, "Mr. Simpson has got this enormous power, would it not be capable of use for something else besides throwing projectiles into an enemy's city at a distance of 300 miles? Could it not, for instance, be used for working a turbine engine?"

RECORD LAW SUIT.

29 DAYS HEARING • COST £53,540.

When the nineteenth day's hearing of the action, "Wyer and others v. Lewis and others," was begun before Mr. Justice Phillimore, a special jury a heavy juryman asked if he would be relieved by Mr. Justice Phillimore. "I want to leave the country on that day," he explained, said laughter.

"Oh!" the judge replied, "we hope to get the case done by Easter."

Many persons interested believe the judge's forecast to be an over- sanguine one; but, even if it is fulfilled, the case will have easily surpassed almost all legal records.

It is brought by Mr. Isidore Wyer and the Ibo and Nyasa Corporation, Limited, against Messrs. Lewis and Marks, financiers; Sir I. Elgerton, Mr. John Scott, Mr. C. F. Rowell, Mr. C. H. Rowell, and Mr. C. H. Weatherley to recover damages for an alleged conspiracy in connection with the Nyasa Company. The sum which Mr. Wyer asserts that he lost is between £30,000 and £40,000.

A host of prominent counsels were engaged. They are:

for plaintiffs, Mr. Rufus Isaacs, K.C. (other than Mr. Wyer); Mr. G. F. Hohlner, K.C.; Mr. J. G. Joseph; Mr. C. F. Lloyd.

for defendants, Sir E. Carson, K.C.; Mr. Montagu Lush, K.C.; Mr. G. Wallace; Mr. J. W. Holmes.

For Mr. Weatherley, Mr. J. Eldon Banks, K.C.; Mr. B. A. Cohen.

No less than £30,000 is stated to have been spent in the preparation of the case. Counsel's "retainers" reached £5,500, while their "refreshers" may be reckoned at £250 for each day of the hearing. The hearing occupies twenty-nine days, as predicted by Mr. Justice Phillimore, the chief items in the bill of costs will be, roughly, as follows:

Spent in preparation ..... £30,000
Counsel's "retainers" ..... 5,500
Counsel's "refreshers" ..... 12,240
Reporting ..... 1,450
Jury's fees ..... 350

Total ..... £53,540

In addition to these expenses interpreters will have to be paid for some of the witnesses are Portuguese, and there will be other minor items, bringing the total up to the enormous sum of £54,000.

The magnitude of these figures is seen when they are compared with the costs of the following celebrated cases:

Parnell Commission ..... £40,000
Belt v. Laws (libel) ..... 19,000
James Ballou (trial) ..... 14,000
Dr. James, trial ..... 14,000
Hartopp (divorce) ..... 10,000

But it is not only as regards cost that the suit will throw all others into the shade. Concessions in Africa are concerned, and the legal difficulties which have been raised have attracted even experts. A very brief outline of the facts took three whole days to relate, while four days were occupied solely in reading documents.

There are so voluminous that there is no room for them in court. A special room has accordingly been set apart as a library, and a clerk is kept busy adding, sorting and arranging them. There are twenty witnesses in all, and they are answering questions put by counsel at the rate of 1,000 a day.

Although few cases have lasted so long, the suit will not establish a record for length of time, the Belt v. Laws case, in 1932, having occupied forty-three days.

Sir Edward Carson is at present engaged in opening the case for the defence.

JAPAN AND INDIAN TRADE.

(By S. M. MITRA in "Pall Mall Gazette.")

The Anglo-Japanese Alliance has been so long belated that no one is likely to forget it; there is much more fear of Japan's ambitions in other directions than those which have led to her military and naval successes occupying notice or being overlooked. Peace hath her victories as well as war. Japan is England's ally in arms, but she is destined to be her rival in trade in the near future; she is likely to be her most formidable competitor in the British-Indian trade; her geographical position is all in her favour; she is nearer India than England is, and she has the advantage of the affinity of colour with the Indians which all Oriental peoples possess.

The Indian merchant-consumer may not go out of his way to encourage German competition in India, but he will do all in his power to benefit the Japanese trader, being actuated thereto by Asiatic affinity. The little Japanese is young yet, as nations reckon in Asia, but he is adored throughout the length and breadth of that Continent, and every Asiatic feels that he would gladly stretch a point, commercial or political, in favour of the newcomer. Nothing succeeds like success; and no nation on the world's surface has risen more rapidly or to a greater height than Japan in the last half-century. Her methods stand confessed. She has applied her national brain-power to the education of the nation in all the developments of modern civilisation; her emissaries have been all over the world and have learned their lessons by selecting the best schools of each country for their studies. So quick-witted a nation was not likely to overlook the importance of a great external trade and the best means of pursuing it.

She finds India comparatively close at hand, with the door as open to her as to anybody, and with the advantages of sympathy for her colour, her successes, and her brains already standing to her credit. It is also natural to her to seek a closer connection with India, the Holy Land of her national religion, Buddhism. A commercial intercourse with India being thus open and comparatively easy, Japan is not going to leave her economic future to chance, and allow England to maintain her commercial pre-eminence unchallenged in the latter's own dependency. She believes—as it would seem that England does not—in sound commercial knowledge, and for this purpose she employs Indians in Japan to advise Japanese commercial chambers and merchants of the minute details of Indian trade. How many Indian gentlemen are there in Great Britain and Ireland, engaged by the Government or chambers of commerce, to advise on Indian trade? If the India Office supposed that the two worthy gentlemen lately and very properly appointed to the Secretary of State's Council had an opinion of any value to offer on Indian trade, it will find itself grievously mistaken.

The Japanese go straight to the point. They want trustworthy commercial information, so they select suitable Indians to reside in Japan and give it to their merchants. Surely this is more efficient than the English system of leaving everything to the faith of "private enterprise," which so often results in mistakes and failure. It is not to be said that the Dutch and French East India Companies failed in times past, though they were State concerns, whereas the English East India Company prospered, because it was left to private enterprise. Those statements may be perfectly true so far as they go, but they do not contain the whole story. Differences of national characters had much to say to the results; moreover, the English company at time received considerable State aid, and at important junctures the foreign companies were not supported from home. The sea power of England was the main source of her success in India, both in politics and in commerce. But the question, not what happened years and years ago, but what is to be done now to maintain the supremacy so long enjoyed by England in the Indian trade. Other nations are acting, while England does little. It is something that in India another Member of Council has been appointed, to have charge of a commercial department; but that is a very different thing from providing in the United Kingdom some trustworthy source of information for English merchants engaged in the Indian trade.

The Japanese are said to be first-hand in two matters of India to which it is not a multitudinous things regarding caste and the prejudices of the Indians, which no European can possibly know, but which are all-important in the trade. The Japanese, it must be admitted, have given evidence of the skill and energy of which they are capable. Sir Thomas Sutherland, chairman of the P. and O. Company, at a meeting reported in the "Times" of December 11, had to admit that the whole of their inter-colonial trade between Bombay and Japan had been carried out by the energy of their Japanese competitors. That trade, consisting chiefly of raw cotton, and amounting to about 700,000 bales, was worked as a monopoly between an association of spinners and the shipowners. The P. and O. Company purchased one or two cargoes of cotton and sent it to Japan, when they found to their surprise and horror that they could not sell a bale, and had to bring it all back. Again, another statement has appeared in the Press to the effect that an important agreement was lately concluded between the Norddeutscher Lloyd Steamship Company and the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, for the regulation of the shipping trade in the further East. The Japanese company, it is said, withdraws from the further India shipping trade and leaves the whole service, and especially the trade between India and Singapore and Hongkong, to the Germans; that is, the Germans are to be left as the unimpeded rivals of British shipping in the further East. Thus Japanese trade is to be forced against British trade. The Japanese would not have adopted this device of utilising German shipping if it did not pay them.

Germany is already England's rival in Indian trade. The trade between Germany and India has during the last decade experienced a marked development; the total value of the annual imports to India from Germany has increased 100 per cent. (Trade German Trade with India, vol. 2, 1922-23). The combination of Japan and Germany is distinctly ominous for British trade. Japanese sourness may have fallen in value, and Japanese morality in trade may not rank as high as that of other nations, but the main fact remains that Japan has begun to cut into the Indian trade, while England is blind to the fact and does not even incur the small expense of appointing an Indian to advise her merchants in England on the possibilities and requirements of Indian trade.

PORT OF LONDON.

GOVERNMENT BILL.

Mr. Lloyd-George's bill for the reform of the Port of London was read a first time under favourable auspices. The President of the Board of Trade was able to announce that the Survey Commercial Dock Company has agreed to terms of purchase, so that the directors of all three dock companies have now assented to the acquisition of their estates by the future Port Authority, and have undertaken to receive payment in Port stock. The arrangement has, of course, to be confirmed by their respective shareholders. The capital and water area of the companies is as follows:

Company.	Capital.	Water Area.
London and India	19,339,875	443
Survey Commercial	2,363,104	165
Millwall	2,094,157	96
	£24,068,336	844

The revenue transferred is, roughly, £800,000 a year. This, it is held, will be sufficient to meet the obligations transferred. It should really do more than that, if the administration of the docks by a single authority leads, as may reasonably be expected, to considerable economies.

The new Port Authority, which it is hoped will come into being on Jan. 1 next, is to supersede:

1. The Dock companies.
2. The Thames Conservancy.
3. The Watermen's Company.

The powers of the Thames Conservancy will in future be restricted to that part of the river which lies above Teddington. The Watermen's Company will be kept alive, but its principal duties are transferred to the Port Authority, as has been anticipated, is based on the Liverpool model, with adaptations suited to London's needs. The Royal Commission recommended a body composed of forty members. The bill of the late Government favoured a similar number. Mr. Lloyd-George proposes a working authority of twenty-five, composed as follows:

By traders and shipowners	14
Appointed.
By Admiralty	1
By Board of Trade	2
By London County Council (members)	3
By London County Council (non-members)	2
By City Corporation	1
By Trinity House	1

Mr. Lloyd-George's memorandum states the figure as twenty-five, unless the chairman and vice-chairman are, as the bill allows, elected from outside. But the details given in the memorandum account for twenty-four only. The Liverpool authority, by the way, has twenty-eight members, of whom twenty-four are elected and four nominated. The municipal element on the new London authority will be very small, compared with the proposals of previous bills, and for the sufficient reason that no guarantee of the Port stock is given either by the London County Council or the City Corporation.

The fourteen elected members, who will constitute the majority of the Port authority, will be chosen by:

1. Payers of dues.
2. Owners of river craft.
3. Wharfingers.

A common franchise being impossible, a special qualification is to be given to owners of river craft and wharfingers. The representation will not be sectional, the hope being that those elected will be chosen to represent the trade and shipping of the port as a whole. As no register can be prepared for the first election, the Board of Trade will appoint the first fourteen, and will take power to nominate the first chairman. The chairman, the first chairman, and chairman of committees may be salaried.

The income of the new authority will be derived not only from the present dock dues and from the receipts now falling to the Thames Conservancy (whose Debenture-holders will receive port stock), but from the following new sources:

- 1.—Levy of port dues on goods.
- 2.—Uniform maximum tonnage dues of 1s 6d per ton.
- 3.—Registration fees on barges.
- 4.—Maintenance of increased Conservancy dues for river improvement, which would terminate this year.

A tax on goods coming into or going out of the port will represent a new import, whose maximum is to be carefully regulated. In this connection it may be assumed that an additional £100,000 a year could be obtained by a levy of about four-fifths of a penny per ton on all goods. The Board of Trade can compel the levy of additional taxation if a deficiency in the port fund is probable.

The duties and powers of the new authority include the following:

1. To consider the needs of the port.
2. To construct new docks.
3. To purchase land compulsorily, east of Banking Creek.
4. To co-operate with others in providing additional port facilities.

It will also be incumbent on the Port Authority to endeavour to diminish casual labour in the docks. There has recently been a great improvement in this respect, but it is possible that, with the co-operation of wharfingers, more can be done. When all the docks are under one management it should obviously be more easy to distribute the available casual labour, and, possibly, still further to increase the number of permanent hands.

Another important point is that the many miles of railways in the docks are no longer to be treated as sidings. The new Port Authority will be a railway company, and will be able to demand through rates. This should be a great advantage to consignees. The existing collection and delivery charges are understood to have operated seriously against the trade of the port of London with the Midlands.

LEGAL "BULL".

Entirely worthy of the son of Ireland who perpetrated it was a "bull" which was heard in a Chancery case, last month during an adjourned summons.

A point had just been decided against a "junior," the son of a well-known Irish King's counsel. Proceeding, he addressed the judge in this wise: "And the other point I have to argue is equally as clear in my favour as the one that has just gone against me."

This was received with loud laughter, whereat counsel sat down rather hurriedly.

The opposing counsel was prompt to seize his opportunity. "Then it is only a question of costs, my lord," he said, and once more the Court laughed.

THE BRAIN CITY AT WORK.

"A City telephone company connects over 200,000 telephones with its central switchboard. There is an average of sixteen square feet of skin covering the human body, with an average of over 10,000 little nerve telephones in each foot square, or over 160,000 in all."

This is one of the striking comparisons which Professor Edward A. Ayers, an American scientist, draws between the human body and the up-to-date city in an article entitled, "How the Brain Works," in "Harper's Magazine."

Professor Ayers describes the brain as the most marvellous machine in the world. "It occupies less space in proportion to its capabilities," he says, "than any machine it ever invented."

He shows how the human telephone answers every call. "The integument is divided into sub-station areas as is the telephone system, and when a 'tactile corpuscle'—a skin telephone—rings up central it is answered by a sub-station agent—a little brain called a ganglion."

This clerk attends to all ordinary calls; but if one foot happens to step on an orange peel, or one arm on a misplaced rack, the commotion is so great that the bells of the main office ring out."

Through the human arteries runs a scarlet stream of some twelve pounds of blood through a system of pipes, like a city's waterwork with its central pump and its thousands of pipes—only the water-pipes are of iron and the vascular pipes are the pure rubber hose, contracting here, expanding there, to throw a smaller stream to a quiet district and a larger to one in action.

By means of the teloscope a man's features can be etched in London and reproduced within ten minutes in New York. The human eye can by a similar use of interrupted and distributed vibrations send a very perfect drawing of a man's features to the brain—and send it in colour. This is a compound teloscope."

IN LYNCHING LAND.

LADY'S NARROW ESCAPE IN PENNSYLVANIA.

A mob at Newcastle, Pennsylvania, bent on lynching a negro murderer, narrowly missed lynching a woman in mistake, says the New York correspondent of the "Express."

The woman is Miss Catherine Brooks, aged twenty-three, of Pittsburg. She strongly desired to visit her invalid brother at Chicago, but not having the money for the long journey she disguised herself as a man and hid away on a freight train.

The train arrived at Newcastle Junction at night, and was standing in a siding when the mob who were searching for the negro murderer came rushing up. The sight of the crowd frightened the young woman, and, jumping out of the freight car, she began to run away.

The sight of her face, blackened with coal dust, made the crowd believe this was the man they wanted, and after a short pursuit she was captured.

A rope was noosed round her neck, and she was dragged to the nearest tree, and told to say her prayers. She was too frightened to speak; but when the rope began to lift her from the ground she screamed in unmistakable feminine tones.

The alerted lynchers hastily lowered the rope, and as they did so the woman's cap fell off, loosening her hair.

The mob then fully recognised their error, and promptly took the rope from off her neck. A collection was made, and enough money contributed to enable her to continue her journey in comfort.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

"About three years ago I was troubled with my hair falling out at an alarming rate."

"A friend of mine induced me to try a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, which I did, and it did me so much good that I have used it ever since. I can gladly say it has made my hair grow very thick and stopped it from falling out. It certainly has no equal and I gladly recommend it."

(Signed) ANNA M. BRODE.

A DOCTOR'S REPORT.

"Knowing the composition of Herpicide, I can state that it contains nothing injurious. In twenty-five per cent of the cases of baldness, a neglected dandruff can be considered as its immediate exciting cause or associated condition. Your Herpicide will, in the vast majority of cases, cure and prevent the continuation of dandruff. It is an elegant and ideal hair dressing."
